

I want to add only this.....

Sinclair Broadcasting is betraying the public trust and harming the very fabric of what constitutes news. A film made about events of 30 years ago is not "news", and any first year journalism student knows it. All you have to do is listen to the representatives of Sinclair for one minute, and the true motive becomes obvious.

They think editorial comments (because those are ALL this so-called documentary consists of ... people voicing their opinions) are "news". Since when?

You granted them their license, it is up to you to enforce the rules, and the American public depends on you!

If you think this is fair, then consider this. What do you think the "other side" would say if CBS ordered it's affiliates to air Michael Moore's movie? Is that now "news" too??? Of course not!

This is a betrayal of the public trust. Nothing more. Nothing less. And you are the only body that can stop this.
